IN CASE YOU MISSED IT:

Telling Your Science Story – In September, in celebration of National Postdoc Appreciation Week, graduate students and postdocs participated in a 4-hour interactive workshop where they learned how to use story telling to effectively talk about their science. After a delicious lunch, the facilitators discussed how to hook your audience, taught how to organize your story, and led exercises to help build confidence in communicating to a diverse audience.

October 19-20 | NYU School of Medicine | 550 First Avenue, New York, NY 10016

A science and technology career symposium, What Can You Be with a PhD? (WCUB) is the largest PhD career symposium in the country, offering over 25 different career path sessions and professional development workshops, featuring 90 speakers over the course of two days. WCUB is hosted biennially by NYU School of Medicine with the support of a consortium of 14 other universities and research institutions around NYC, including Einstein.

Registration is now open! You must use the special school code: AWQCUB to get the discounted rate. Please be sure to use your school email address!

Bus transportation will be provided from Einstein to the conference each morning. The return trip is on your own. If you would like to take the bus you MUST register for bus transportation separately using this link.

TOO MUCH TO DO? Managing Your Time When You Have No Time
October 23 | Price Center | Room 251 | 3:00 - 4:30 pm | RSVP HERE
Join us to hear from Dr. Donna Vogel, Scientific Career Educator, who will discuss why trainees need to take the time necessary to develop themselves professionally, and how to make it all work, even when trainees feel overwhelmed.

IMPOSTOR SYNDROME
October 24 | Upper Max & Sadie Lounge | 7:00pm
Do you ever feel like a fraud -- concerned you are going to be found to be a fake who doesn't belong? You are not alone. Imposter Syndrome commonly affects PhDs and other high achievers who are unable to internalize and accept their success. Hear from Amy Kranzler, Ph.D. and licensed clinical psychologist, who will discuss how to face these feelings. The entire Einstein community is invited. Sponsored by the Office of Student Activities and the CPD.

THINKING ABOUT A CAREER IN BIOTECH? Start Here! (sponsored by biotech: PROMEGA)
October 29 | Price Center | Room 251 | 4:00 - 5:30pm | RSVP HERE
Promega is on campus to discuss how becoming a successful scientist in the biotech industry requires more than an understanding of protocols and biological processes. Join representatives from Promega as they explore a career in Sales, Research & Development, Product Management, and so much more. In addition, hear directly from Promega HR representatives about the professional skills you need for success. Learn how to write a fantastic resume, nail the interview and land the job you are looking for!
