FASPE Medical is a fully-funded, two-week fellowship program in professional ethics and ethical leadership that begins by examining the actions and choices of German physicians in enabling Nazi policies. It then draws on this historical example to help Medical Fellows grasp their role as influencers in their field and in their communities, as well as identify and confront the ethical issues currently facing physicians and the healthcare system. The program takes place in Germany and Poland at the sites of Nazi actions, allowing Fellows to benefit from the power of the place and immersive, contextual learning.
